DEMYSTIFYING PALLIATIVE CARE

To support National Palliative care week CESPHN and SESLHD will be running an online webinar demystifying palliative care.

Palliative care is often misunderstood as giving up, but in reality, it's about improving quality of life at any stage of a serious illness. Palliative care supports the whole person, physically, emotionally, and spiritually, while also helping families navigate complex decisions.

This conversation shines a light on what palliative care really is: compassionate, person-centered care that empowers patients to live as fully and comfortably as possible.
